Dynamic Product and Marketing Manager with over a decade of experience leading product development and marketing strategies for high-profile platforms like Camfrog.com, Paltalk.com, Tinychat.com, and Oranum.com. Specialized in transforming products from initial concepts to market leaders, I blend visionary leadership with practical expertise in product development and marketing. My career is marked by a consistent focus on driving customer-centric innovations, and successful product revamps in the digital space.

At the core of my approach is a deep understanding of user experience enhancement and growth through innovation in live-streaming social sites and influencer engagement platforms. I am seeking new opportunities to apply my skills in product management, driving products to new heights in an environment that values innovation and user-centric development.
